Holocaust Museum Houston examines medical education, the doctor-patient relationship and medical professionalism

- What: As part of "Medical Ethics and the Holocaust," a 15-part lecture series and exhibit hosted by Holocaust Museum Houston, two Yale University graduates, Theresa M. Duello, Ph.D., and Jordan Cohen, M.D., will discuss their perspectives on what today's medical students should be taught about racial hygiene, cultural diversity, the doctor-patient relationship and professionalism. Duello and Cohen will discuss how German medical education influenced the behavior of physicians during the Nazi era and the meaning of that behavior for today's medical students.
- Where: Holocaust Museum Houston
5401 Caroline St.
- Who: Theresa M. Duello, Ph.D., an associate professor for the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison
- Jordan Cohen, M.D., president emeritus of the Association of American Medical Colleges
- *Dr. Sheldon Rubinfeld, chair of the steering committee for "Medical Ethics and the Holocaust" will moderate the lectures.*
- When: Tuesday, Oct. 9, 2007
6 p.m.
- Why: This is a continuation of a 15-part lecture series designed to help understand how the Holocaust's horrific medical practices shape today's medical ethics.
- Specifics: To register online or for more information, visit www.hmh.org/medethics or call 713-942-8000.

About Holocaust Museum Houston

Holocaust Museum Houston is dedicated to educating people about the Holocaust, remembering the 6 million Jews and other innocent victims and honoring the survivors' legacy. Using the lessons of the Holocaust and other genocides, the Museum teaches the dangers of hatred, prejudice and apathy. For more information, visit www.hmh.org.
